By day, hour, minute, the campus unfolds, allowing those "ones" to emerge from a gregarious existence into the oneness that makes him unique and sets him apart.

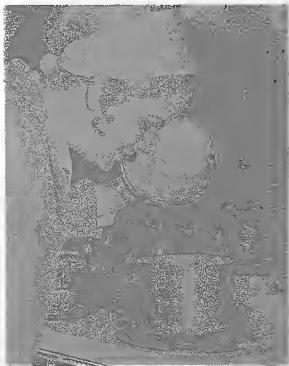

All aspects of campus life contribute to his emergence—familiar places, knowledge of things, and association with people from diverse backgrounds.

His home transforms into a focal point,
a stable axis for all his movements.

Developing this distinct "oneness" is not easy — he must explore in those areas of study which can contribute to his individuality.

Relaxation—an integral part of life; a chance to escape everyday routine; a time to rest, play, laugh, joke, sleep.

Through his creativity, his devotion to causes and relations with others, an individual's ideas become reality.

He becomes a contributing force to organizations and cuts out his image among various groups of people.

He learns that others, as bits of cut glass shaping and surrounding a central form, complete for him his individualized self.

Finding his place on the campus, the place where he can do "his thing," is the goal of students who desire personal development. The wide range in activities aids the student in this goal and provides the spark igniting his talent.

Activities

Golden fall brings suitcases, books, all, to campus

It's home to Marilyn Moore, Debbie Sergfried and Judy Lewis.

Hi, my name's . . . a nifty new roommate. A suitcase brigade. Welcome back. How was your summer? Gee, I missed you. Old friends, new ideals, introductions, perpetual bookstore lines, house meetings sounded the familiar gong. The first of the season . . . a super date, a groovy weekend. Activities Night and a freshman introduction to alphabet soup . . . SEA, SCGB, PEMM, ACT, YAF and UPP was the beginning of a resounding Ball State welcome offered to new and old.

Dum-da-dum-dum, Dragnet, black shirts, Big Al and the Mob kept their third of the Greek Weekend concert rockin'.

Greeks on the march prepared for football and a balloon send-off.

Any questions? Greek Weekend found Ginny Hunt and Shirley Speigel answering many.

"Rock, rhythm, receptiveness, and college kids are really groovy," affirmed Tommy James and the Shondells.

Yard party, skits, march, balloons, football pop concert, open houses signify Greek Weekend

A Greek? Mount Olympus type? No, fraternity and sorority. What is Greek life? What and when is rush? How can I be involved? Where would I live? It's all a mystery, no doubt. Greek Weekend was a time for rockin' out to the Taxmen at the Lambda Chi yard party, asking questions, viewing ye ole first home game on Band Day complete with the Greek balloon send off. Tapping the toe to The Mob, Tommy James and the Shondells and the Boxtops brought Greek Weekend to a close except for Sunday open houses held by each fraternity and sorority.

Crowd small, enthusiasm great, the Boxtops strummed the Letter.

Sigma Chi's, Tri Sigma's sponsor annual Fish Fry

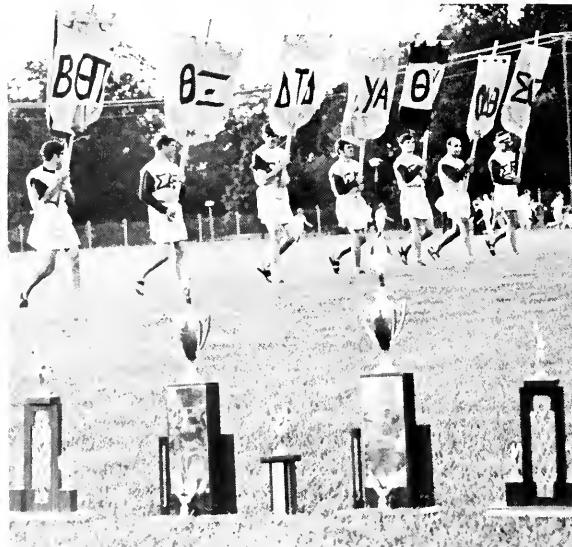

Bring on the fish. More chips here. How 'bout a coke or some cole slaw. Hurry, man, I'm starving. Sock 'em to me. All under the spreading circus tent on West Campus. The aroma of freshly fried fish brought hordes of hungry Ball Staters to the seventh annual Jonah Fish Fry. Tri Sigma's and Sig Chi's manned the zooming chow lines making endless trips from grill to famished mouth while early-comers rocked out to the Styx and Stones. Later XKE's entertained with a movie on the green.

After filling up on fish, cole slaw and potato chips, students could rock out to the music of the Stix and Stones or relax under clear September skies while watching a movie on the green.

Al Stevenson and Dana Christie indulged in a hearty supper.

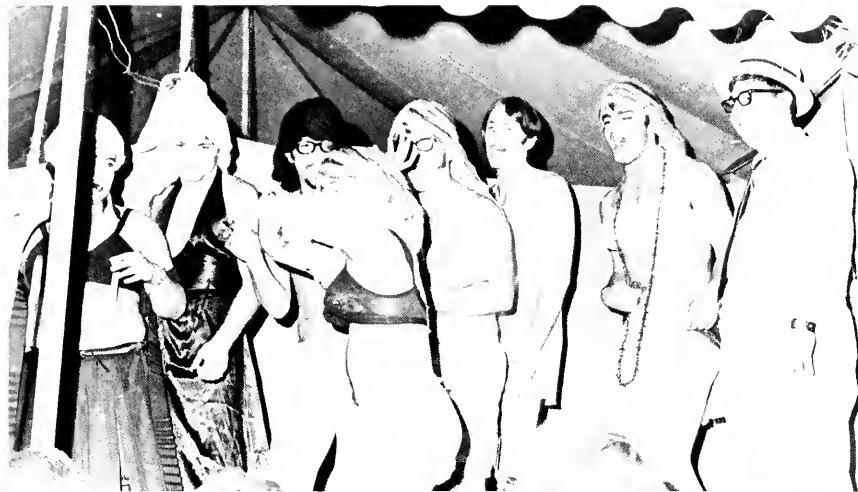

SAE's waved the banners of Greeks vying for trophies seen in the foreground.

Chariot race, Battle of the Bands highlight annual Greek Circus Feed

Step right up. Come one, come all. Get your hot dogs, your fish and your peanuts, a cigarette for the roulette, pie for the throwing, a kiss for a quarter. Laugh at the all-male "girly" show, watch fraternity men slide into a tub of slippery slimy mud, or thrill to the glamorous chariot race, all fostered by the Greeks at the annual Chi Omega — Sigma Alpha Epsilon Circus Feed. Entertainment in the form of food, dancing, sideshows and games of chance were made available to students at the Friday night event.

*Toga, robe and wreath won Theta Xi's and Kappa
Theta Rho's. Walt Smudzinski,
Willis Renz, Char Ellison and Bill
Carrico the best costume award.*

Torch held high, Ken Bishop paces the chariot's first lap.

Paced to the starting line, chariots and their queens were off in a thunder of tennies and aroma of dust.

Lighted torches, gold pillars, and flags lined the old stadium which served as the sight for the Circus Feed's featured attraction, a 12 lap chariot race won by the Sig Eps and AOPis. Hungry students were guaranteed quick access to plenty of fish, hot dogs, potato chips, and coke as 10 food lines were added this year to the three lines previously used. Later in the evening, under the Big Top, students thrilled to the sounds of the Chosen Few and December's Children in a clanging, crashing Battle of the Bands.

Pseudo sandals were contrived from twine and tennies.

Theta Chi's and Tri Sig's pass in review led by SAE's.

Queen Judy, court of four reign over 1968 Homecoming as Disney Daze sweeps campus

Buzz-z-z-z. Sh-h-h-h! Don't tell . . . float ideas, theme for outside and inside decorations, what our suits look like, or where our float is. Midnight work sessions, last minute clean up and touch up and a foggy dawn set up. Hoots and hollers of the kick-off games, blaze and crackle of the bonfire and the beginning of a new queen's reign. School song, balloons and it's all the way down the field to a losing game. Open houses and John Davidson brought a triumphant Homecoming to a close.

Judy Blaskovich, 1968 Homecoming Queen, Chi Omega.

Queen's Court included Lana Alexander, Alpha Chi Omega; Jennifer Frewer, Delta Zeta; Christie Little, Wood Hall; and Becky McDaniel, Rogers Hall.

Moans and groans . . . screams and yells . . . a blaring band. All were a part of the wild and wacky scene during Homecoming kick-off games on Friday night. Two hours of chasing greased pigs, squeezing through tires, and running relays kindled enthusiasm for the weekend's activities. Excitement was kept alive by the lighting of the traditional bonfire following the games. Activity then moved to the Fine Arts Terrace where amid oohs, aahs and congrats Judy Blaskovich was crowned 1968 Homecoming Queen.

Concluding the evening was a series of skits making up the Variety Show, "Hallelujah for Happiness."

It was the blind leading the blind in one of Friday evening's games.

Among the semi-finalists competing for the Homecoming Queen title were Penny Flatt, Painter Hall; Ruthanne McConnell, Alpha Sigma Alpha; Carol Potter, Sigma Kappa; Virginia Hunt, Davidson Hall; and Gail Acomb, Alpha Omicron Pi.

Groovy, Stupendous. Unbelievable. Roommate, sister, J.B., you made it. It was a time for congrats, smiles and tears.

Me? Was it me? Did I win the contest? cried Joyce DeWitt in the Variety Show.

Love one another . . . sang the Denomination of Truth.

The court donned mums and ascended their float for the hazy morning parade.

Disney Daze brought bubble blowing Marcia Friend, mouseketeer Diane Guidone, clown Bill Sellery and lots of youngsters to the parade.

The last napkin had just been stuffed, the last streak of paint splashed on, and the last costume donned. In the end product, cartoon characters came to life and colorful floats delighted crowds that lined a five-mile parade route. Beta Theta Pi's float, "Little Engine That Could," captured first place in the fraternity division while Alpha Phi's "Thump Em" took first place in the sorority division. In the independent division, Industrial Education Association's "Construct A Victory" was the winner.

No clownin', no jest, just rest before that five-mile hike.

The traditional parade — a first for President Pruis.

Taking first for the independents was the Industrial Arts Association. The men of Beta Theta Pi won first place in the fraternity division.

"Thump 'Em" captured honors for the Alpha Phi's.

It was tackle time as centerback, Don Greening brought down an Eastern runner.

Meeska, Muska, Mouseketeer, Cardinal football now is here. A dazzling sun welcomed students and alumni for Saturday afternoon's game. Enthusiasm was soon stifled however, by calls of Ball State losing fifteen yards and another touchdown for Eastern. Then onto the field marched the Pride of Mid-America for its half-time show. Spirits were once again enlivened as the band's tunes took the audience "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" and "Off to See the Wizard." Climaxing half-time was the presentation of the queen and her court.

Pass completed? Barney Wingate and Gary Wasson certainly tried royally for the skin—no score.

Sunny skies and 80 degree temperature brought throngs to watch the Cardinal's teamwork, but a hazy score pervaded Benadum Acres.

Concluding the weekend, Cardinal Hall was one scene for Homecoming dances.

Streamers, balloons, and special lighting, enhancing a theme of "Mardi Gras"; waterfalls, palm trees, and island decor setting a mood for a "River Safari"; mushroom tables, colorful flowers, and a large pocket watch, carrying out the theme "Late for a Very Important Date." Such were the atmospheres prevailing at Homecoming dances on campus. While students were dancing the hours away, capacity audiences in Emens Auditorium were warmly entertained by singer John Davidson and comedian Pete Barbutti.

The Other Five were backed by Walt Disney characters.

John Davidson wooed two full-houses with lyrics.

Even politics made Campus Chest.

Help a lady in distress with a penny for Campus Chest.

$1.50 . . . $10 . . . the highest for breakfast in bed.

Pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters vote yes for Campus Chest

Come on now, Vote Yes for Campus Chest. Shell out those extra coins. How about a quarter, a dime, nickel or even a penny for a poor freezing soul like me. You must have some extra dough for philanthropy, clamored Abe Lincoln, Betsy Ross, Uncle Sam, Tinker Bell, an Indian or an Alpine maid. Caught. You have to donate to get on the elevator, leave the hall, get your mail, eat lunch or cut halls—all in a spirit of competition and aiming toward the $8,000 goal. This year faculty members also contributed through their first faculty auction.

Chester Micky Dellekamp took a long-awaited rest.

Bill Martinez collected coins for Alpha Sigma Tau.

Tim Kolbe cuddles auction purchase Chopper, youngest Lambda

Campaigns, candidates arouse student interest

1968—the controversial year of student residency requirements, write-in candidates and the Vietnam war. Buttons, posters, rallies, parades, hats, balloons and personal appearances became a vital element of the BSU students' involvement in the national, state and local campaigns. Bayh, Norton, Dennis, Ruckelshaus, Gregory and Whitcomb became a part of the campus political scene while Nixon, Wallace and Humphrey were a constant topic of polling, discussion and debate.

Students protesting against local residency requirements were later allowed to vote in Muncie.

Birch Bayh, in one of his visits to Muncie, stops to admire a young supporter.

Dwight David Eisenhower, 1890-1969.

Presidential candidate Richard Nixon didn't make it to Muncie but did visit other Indiana cities and was greeted by student supporters.

Democrat gubernatorial candidate, Robert Rock, made several campaign visits to Muncie and Ball State and met with enthusiastic supporters.

William Ruckelshaus, Republican candidate for U.S. Senator, spoke to students in front of the Tally.

Presidential candidate Dick Gregory campaigned in Muncie.

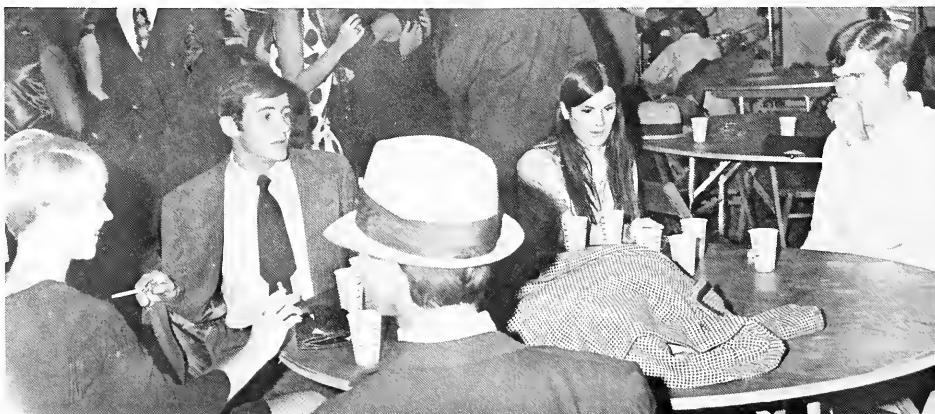

Indiana's governor, Edgar Whitcomb, stopped in Muncie while on his campaign trail in the fall.

Mrs. Robert Rock, wife of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, visited Ball State.

Introductions, smokers, parties speak of rush

Rush, introductions, invitations to dinner, cokes and coffee in the Tally. Rush in the Dugout, at the basketball games, at the Pig or in the gym. Time for a cig or a drink and a game of euchre or poker, and rush. And then more rush and smokers and then a final committal to the one and only.

The wait for acceptance and the final announcement to the whole campus at the Student Center and finally pledge hats and pins . . . brotherhood.

Rush is a time for getting acquainted and making the foundation for future binding friendships, decide Paul Cave and Steve Schegman.

*After the triumphal walk to the Student Center
Ted Woolever announced the 27 SAE pledges.*

"Let's hear it for the Sigs and their 22 pledges," shout Jeff Thomas and Bob Lipps.

Rush—acquaintances, tension, sisterhood

Rush coke dates, rush, introductions, rush teas, songs, tired feet, worn smiles, rush invitations, final parties, last minute practice, new outfits. Pledging, shouts of joy and happiness. The appearance of roses, owls, lyres, crowns, ivy leaves, lamps, arrows, daisies, violets, pledge hats and books depict the finality of organized rush the two weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas and the beginning of training for the novices as they reach toward the ultimate goal . . . sisterhood.

As an Alpha Phi forget-me-not rings about the Alpha Phi suite many rushees are entertained in order to meet more sisters.

Chi O's sing the owl song for rushees at their tea.

It's Sigma Kappa life to these sisters as they sing for rushees.

The final party. A faint whiff of the wispy rose.

*Different sororities,
yet the same . . .
Greek . . . expresses Sue Becker.*

Jackie Long and Vicki Powell portray a flower girl and ring bearer in a wedding skit at Pi Phi's final party.

Chi O's light the fire of sisterhood during their final party.

What are pledge trainers? They're pretty great, cheer Alpha Sig pledges.

Central
FIRS

Would you believe this is the twentieth one? But Doris Miller says it's fun.

Paula Thompson peers into the hall decorations; could she be looking for that special star?

"What a hoot! For Christmas?" asks Kathy Matter.

Lights, presents, trees, caroling bring Christmas

Sparkling snow, flickering multi-colored lights that made twinkling shadows across campus announced the coming of the yule season . . . It was a time for secret santas, trimming the ole tree with bulbs of all hues, shiny tinsel and strings of cranberries and popcorn; sharing traditions, hanging snowflakes, candy canes and streamers about halls, suites and houses; caroling in the blistering cold and a fire in the fireplace with time to sit and chat and absorb the warmth that raditates most at that season . . . Christmas.

Sparkling lights, mistletoe radiate "Holly Daze" amid holly, evergreens

Seeing old friends, meeting new ones, dancing the hours away, dodging sprigs of mistletoe, gazing into the twinkling lights while dreaming of what the Christmas holidays would bring, anxiously awaiting the crowning of a new king and queen. There was no better way of getting into the Christmas mood than by being a part of Holly Daze, the annual Christmas dance sponsored by Student Center Governing Board.

Bob Coddington and Connie Rhodes reigned over the Christmas Holly Daze.

Which one will it be, is the question in the minds of this couple as they look over the pictures of king and queen candidates.

Well attended this year, the Christmas dance with its gay holiday atmosphere was a time for meeting old friends as well as dancing the hours away.

The last of the ballots were tallied by Tom Ley minutes before the names of the new Christmas dance king and queen were announced.

Velvet, lace ruffles, chunkies and Mary Boarman.

"A night on the town" brought second runner-up, Tina Wysong, Kappa Theta Rho; Miss Best Dressed Co-ed Carmen Marks, DeMotte; and first runner-up Molly Bradley, Alpha Chi Omega, into the limelight.

"A night on the town" features stylish co-eds

Poise, elegance, charm and achievement . . . Carmen Marks, Miss Best Dressed Co-ed, DeMotte, and her first and second runners-up Molly Bradley, Alpha Chi Omega, and Tina Wysong, Kappa Theta Rho, drew many an eye as the 33 contestants enjoyed a night on the town amid love seats and storybook trees bedecking the Little Theatre in blue and yellow. Posing in campus, sport and evening wear, the three Best Dressed Coeds were chosen for college typicality, clothes-wearing deftness, academic achievements and leadership in activities.

Can it really be me? What excitement for Carmen Marks to be selected Miss Best Dressed Co-ed from among 33 girls.

President Pruis explained a university's goals and purposes.

Delegates from professional organizations, learned societies and colleges across the country along with Ball State faculty and administration heads, donned their robes and took part in the processional preceding the inauguration.

In his speech, Tom Kraack welcomed Pruis on behalf of the student body.

Speaking for more than 30,000 alumni, A. Dean Speicher, warmly welcomed Ball State's seventh president.

Former Ball State president John R. Emens officially relinquished all responsibilities as he presented the presidential medallion to Pruis.

Pruis inaugurated as seventh president

In a dignified and impressive ceremony, John J. Pruis officially became Ball State's seventh president in April. Preceding the actual inauguration itself was a processional in which representatives from nearly 400 colleges and professional organizations participated. Greetings were given to the new president by Alexander Bracken, Board of Trustees president; Edgar Whitcomb, Indiana governor; A. Dean Speicher, president of the alumni association; Alan Rankin, president of the Indiana Conference of Higher Education; John Hannaford, president of University Senate and Thomas Kraack, student body president. Following the greetings, Bracken performed the installation, former Ball State president John R. Emens presented the presidential medallion and Pruis humbly gave his acceptance speech.

Governor Edgar Whitcomb pledged his support to Ball State and its new president.

Alan Rankin welcomed President Pruis on behalf of the Indiana Conference of Higher Education.

Alexander Bracken presided over the inaugural ceremony.

A formal dance, flowers and all, climaxed one hall weekend.

Dormitory weekends feature varied events

Watermelon-eating contests, three-legged races, tug-of-wars, egg toss contests, scavenger hunts, football games. Sound wild? It usually was for hall residents who actively participated in special dorm weekends. Following a day of exciting kick-off games, activity would usually center around an outdoor cook-out if weather permitted and then a movie-on-the-green or a dance under the stars. Dorm weekends were ordinarily sponsored by all halls in one complex but some dorms planned weekends with Purdue halls too.

An SCGB Easter egg hunt provided an afternoon of fun for children who sought eggs for fun and prizes.

Students show concern through philanthropy

A jolly Santa with a bag full of toys . . . a life-size Easter bunny with a basket of chocolate eggs . . . a young coed proudly displaying a box filled with everything needed for a genuine Thanksgiving dinner. Involved in situations such as these, Ball State student organizations showed their concern for the less fortunate. By organizing food drives, fund drives, and parties for underprivileged children and orphans in their spare time, students managed to make the lives of others a little brighter.

President Pruis admired the King of Hearts crown presented to him by Alpha Phi Heart Fund Queen Diane Heinlen and Marsha Anhold.

Delta Zeta presents annual bridal show

In planning her trousseau as well as what she will wear when she takes that walk down the aisle, the future bride appreciates any assistance she is given. By attending "Flame Fantasy," the annual Delta Zeta bridal show, she caught a glimpse of the latest fashions, appropriate for a bride and her attendants. Modeling the various styles of wedding apparel along with the most up-to-date in trousseau fashions were representatives of each sorority. A "Mini-Mod" mock wedding added a touch of entertainment.

Preparing to model her selection in wedding attire is Penny Ralston, Delta Sigma Theta representative.

Myra Bewley, Pi Beta Phi representative in the bridal show, needed some assistance in adding the crowning touch, a headpiece, to her wedding attire.

Wagoner Hall residents captured second place in the men's singles division.

Competition, choreography, costumes compose

Members of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity combined their talents and won first place honors.

Sigma Chi's won first place with their medley of "Heart of My Heart" and "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

For the second consecutive year, residents of Baker Hall placed first in the women's singles division.

Fred Stark enthusiastically directs the Lambdas and ChiOs.

Spring Sing lyrics

Combining vocal talents, rhythmic movements and colorful costumes, campus groups vied for first place honors in the Sigma Alpha Iota-Phi Mu Alpha Spring Sing. With their animated presentation of "59th Street Bridge Song," the Alpha Chi's and Sig Ep's took top honors in the combined division. Winning first in the singles division were the Sig Chi's who combined derbies, a soft shoe and barber shop harmony into a successful performance of "Heart of My Heart" and Baker Hall residents who, dressed as animal-like characters, sang their way to first place with "Talk to the Animals."

With their medley, "Sunny Side of Love," Alpha Phi's and Delta Tau Delta's placed second in the combined division.

Diane Heinlen, Alpha Phi representative, became "Playmate of the Year."

Playmate, Bachelor chosen in contests

A chance to win a lifetime subscription to "Playboy" magazine as well as an evening's entertainment at any Playboy Club and the opportunity to vote for the campus "Playmate of the Year" — that's what a ticket to the SAE Playmate Dance bought for any male willing to take his date to the event. In competition with seventeen other coeds, Diane Heinlen was finally selected as the reigning "Playmate." In similar style, Chris Calpin was selected by coeds as "Bachelor of the Year" at the Tri Sig dance and contest.

"Can't quite figure it out," says Chris Calpin, XKE, chosen by coeds as "Bachelor of the Year."

Determined teams pull, slide, fall for victory

in muddy Tug-of-War

Blood, sweat and tears. It wasn't all that bad but anyone willing to pull for their team in the Theta Xi Tug-of-War finished the struggle looking a little more bedraggled than when they entered the contest. Those emerging as victors, however, didn't fare quite as badly as the losers who were pulled right down into a big bed of mud when they no longer had enough strength to keep tugging. Fifty-five teams competed with Alpha Sigma Alpha, Sigma Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, the Crabs and Rogers Hall taking first.

Greek coeds battle for Derby Day laurels

Mud-filled hair, whipped cream-covered faces, greasy hands, wet feet and sore muscles described the condition of sorority coeds following their participation in a series of action-packed events taking place on Sigma Chi's annual Derby Day. Starting the day was a chase during which coeds hid themselves in bushes and behind buildings, waiting to capture an unsuspecting Sigma Chi and steal his derby. Alpha Phi captured the most derbies in this phase. Then followed a best-dressed duck contest and a round of games with the most points being won by AOPis.

At least whipped cream tastes better than mud says Pam Rogers, Alpha Phi.

Carol Cooper got what she wanted but not without dire consequences.

Mass protest rally reflects discontent

"We are not second class citizens," "We demand student voice and university reform," "Student Senate is not dead." With these cries, students flocked, in the spring, to a mass protest rally which enabled students to freely voice their discontent and air their questions. Nearly 1700 students gathered under rain-threatened skies to discuss peaceful but firm measures that would be taken by Student Senate and other campus leaders to insure student voice and the administration's recognition of this voice.

Student body president Tom Kraak and Charlie Ellis, senator who originated the idea of the rally, reacted to student grievances.

The satisfaction expressed on this student's face reflected the feelings of many participants about the rally.

Karen Kamp becomes new Miss Ball State

The silence of several breathtaking moments was suddenly broken as, amidst wild cheers and clamoring applause, Karen Kamp was crowned the 1969-70 Miss Ball State. Weeks of grueling rehearsals, hectic preparations and numerous interviews combined with an underlying feeling of tension, were all forgotten by the new queen when the coveted crown was placed on her head. This was not the end, however. It was the beginning — the beginning of more busy schedules and tense moments as the Miss Indiana Pageant drew near.

Debbie Bertram was named "Miss Congeniality" for the second year.

Runners-up Shari Mattix, 2nd; Debra Weiss, 4th; Bev Parsley, 3rd; and Mary Lou Nichols, 1st; surround the new Ball State queen, Karen Kamp.

Tears of happiness filled Jane Faris' eyes as she recalled her reign as queen.

Marsha Anhold, Mary Lou Nichols and Karen Kamp join Andy Rent.

The ten contestants perform together in a song and dance routine as the anxiety-filled moments, involving individual appearances before the judges, approach.

Judges took that last careful look before making a decision.

Kit Field, Miss Indiana, and Jane Faris, Miss Ball State for 1968, watch pageant activities before crowning the new queen.

In talent competition Karen performed a free exercise routine to "Ebb Tide."

New Miss Ball State assumes varied duties

Presenting trophies . . . giving speeches . . . riding in parades . . . In her role as Miss Ball State, Karen Kamp will be performing certain official duties, which in addition to her other activities will fill her schedule for the coming year. The versatility needed for this has been exhibited by Karen. An elementary education major planning to work with the underprivileged, Karen is also a well-rounded sports enthusiast.

There were plenty of friends and well-wishers on hand to congratulate Karen.

Marsha Anhold, Alpha Phi, sang "I Am the Greatest Star" from "Funny Girl."

Sponsored by Tichenor Hall, Patty Spangler did the Barbara Streisand number, "Don't Rain on My Parade."

Shari Mattix, AOPi, presented dialogue and the song "Much More" from "The Fantasticks."

Jennifer Frewer played a "West Side Story" medley.

Bev Parsley recited her own monologue of "What Is A Girl?"

Nancy Berger, for her talent, performed a piano medley of romantic songs.

Playing an arrangement of Romantic period's "Tolichenelle" was Debra Weiss.

Attired in the appropriate costume, Mary Lou Nichols did a Ukrainian folk dance, barefooted.

John Adams helped win first place honors for his division which included the Beta's, Alpha Chi's, AOPi's and SAE'S.

Variety Show climaxes weeks of preparation

Original and creative entertainment in lively Greek style comprised the twentieth annual Theta Xi Variety Show. Combining their talents in five separate divisions, fraternity and sorority groups wrote scripts, designed costumes and arranged choreography and vocal presentations to put together productions that would merit them top honors. Capturing first place were the Alpha Chi's, AOPi's, Beta's and SAE's. Second place went to the Sig Ep's, Alpha Sig's, and Kappa Theta Rho. Delt's, Pi Phi's, Theta Chi's, Sigma Kappa's and Alpha Sigma Tau's took third place.

An exotic dance was a part of the production, "In Is Out."

Entertainment was provided by Jim Cahill.

Entertaining comedy characterized the production, "There's Gotta Be Something Better Than This," which won second place.

Cyclists race for victory mark in Lambda Chi

Bike-A-Thon weekend

Sweltering sun, beating on the futilely watered-down dirt track, while cyclists kicked up dust as they encircled the course, increased the grim determination of the teams. Riders pedaled into their pits, with perspiration dripping as they relaxed their taunt muscles, only to be responded with constricting pain. Apprehension, agony, and excitement was replaced with ecstasy, elation, and triumph as the 33 teams reached the climax of the Saturday afternoon competition during the 19th Annual Lambda Chi Alpha Bike-A-Thon.

It took much dexterity and practice for Julie Neal and Julie Wright to make a fast change.

It was a thrilling moment for these two members of Delta Zeta when they saw their team finish first.

On a smaller scale but characterized by just as much enthusiasm and determination was Trike-A-Thon, the race with the feminine touch. Pedaling around the tracks at top speed, coeds representing women's sorority and independent groups, vied for the championship trophy which had been Sigma Kappa's for the past five years. Sigma Kappa riders finally yielded to Delta Zeta cyclists who capped first place honors in the sorority and then went on to win the overall race by defeating the Crosley Hall team which had placed first in the independent division.

Adding to the spirit of the occasion were the pit decorations put up by each participating team.

Members of the winning Delta Zeta trike team happily accept the trophy symbolizing their victory. For the first time in five years Sigma Kappa lost.

The Beta's made last minute preparations before they raced.

An SAE cyclist prepared to mount and race the next lap.

A rider's confidence . . . a spectator's tense anticipation . . . a child's fascinated interest . . . a victor's elation . . . a loser's depression. Expressions on the faces of participants and spectators alike were an indication of the many moods felt by those who trudged to the Fair Grounds on a hot, sultry day so they could ride or cheer their team to victory.

Posting a record setting time of 1:53.44, Black Key cyclists raced their team to victories in the independent and overall divisions. Sigma Phi Epsilon, the winner in the fraternity division, was a close contender for awhile in the overall race, but the Black Key team led during a majority of the 80 laps. It was a combination of expert riding, skillful mounts and dismounts and no penalties that aided the team's effort. Sigma Phi Epsilon came in second while Sigma Alpha Epsilon, top qualifiers, placed third.

Miss Ball State, Karen Kamp, helped present the trophies to the winning teams in each division.

Black Key team members proudly displayed the trophies they won as a result of record-setting victories in the independent and overall divisions.

Winners were congratulated and losers consoled as the race came to an end.

All the dust, sweat and tension really seemed worth it when winners received their trophies.

Ballots were in demand election day as a large turnout of students came to the polls to cast their votes.

Ken Wissman and Tom Kraack discussed Senate business long after its adjournment.

Campus politics stress involvement, reform

Show your concern for campus affairs . . . support candidates . . . don't display student apathy. Cries like these echoed all over campus during the days preceding student elections in the spring. Many issues had been raised during the year and much was accomplished by the Tom Kraack administration but, still feeling that more could be done, a new party, ACT (Activate Campus Thought), was formed. ACT put up a slate of candidates and campaigned vigorously, opposed only by independent candidates. Following a good election turnout, the independent team of Tim Mains and Jerry Williams became student body heads.

Auditorium, theater schedule diversified, worthwhile programs

Popular music . . . stage productions . . . comedians . . . modern dance performances . . . classical orchestra music . . . ballet . . . folksinging . . . educated lecturers. Regardless of an individual's tastes, there was something that would benefit him in the Emens Auditorium schedule of events during the year. Rarely did a week go by that there wasn't some type of program being presented. For additional entertainment, there were regular performances by drama students in the popular productions at the Little Theater.

This scene displayed the colorful pageantry viewed by the audience during the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado."

Problems of a village peasant during Tsarist Russia were portrayed in the popular production, "Fiddler on the Roof."

A young dentist constantly found himself entangled in romantic predicaments in "Cactus Flower."

Drama in the "Man of La Mancha" unfolded as Don Quixote donned his armor and set to renounce evil and recapture chivalry.

Vivid stage productions bring crowds to Emens

Uncontrolled laughter, unrestrained tears, rising emotions, standing ovations . . . such were audiences' reactions to the ever-popular stage productions presented at Emens Auditorium throughout the year. Superb performances like those witnessed in the dramatic musical "Man of LaMancha," the delightful comedy "Cactus Flower," and the poignant production of "Fiddler on the Roof," drew capacity audiences as did the professional quality characterizing the productions of "Apple Tree" and "Lamp at Midnight."

A woman's true love and capacity for understanding were tested in "Lady or the Tiger," a segment of "Apple Tree."

Galileo's beliefs were in constant discord with those of his Church and the Pope in "Lamp at Midnight."

Andres Segovia, classical guitarist, demonstrated his ability to adapt concert compositions to the guitar.

During a cross-country tour, the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater appeared at Ball State to present the French opera, "Carmen."

For those who appreciate the more serious style of music, there was a performance by the New York Pro Musica group.

Concert series offers cultural enrichment

A classical guitarist . . . an internationally famed philharmonic orchestra . . . a master of the harp . . . a grand opera theater . . . a widely acclaimed orchestra leader. Classical describes last year's Emens Auditorium Concert Series in general terms but much more could be said about the interesting variation in types of performances. The wide range in areas of classical music with appearances by noted artists in these areas, contributed to a season of memorable concerts and cultural entertainment.

Nicanor Zabaleta, who has been referred to as the "King of Harpists" appeared with the Muncie Symphony for one concert.

Mantovani and his orchestra entertained audiences at Ball State with a combination of classical, contemporary and Broadway music.

Eugene Ormandy brought his Philadelphia Orchestra to Ball State to present the only Indiana concert this season.

Entertainment by the Ramsey Lewis Trio focused on jazz.

Presenting popular rock numbers in their own variation and style were the members of the ever popular Four Tops.

The talent of pianist Roger Williams was apparent in his presentation of a wide selection of music.

Performing before a sellout crowd, the Lettermen sang their own hits as well as a few all-time favorites.

Nation's top entertainers perform at Ball State

Popular piano arrangements by Roger Williams and Ferrante and Teicher; the hilariously wild humor of Bill Cosby; the mellow harmony in the songs of the Lettermen, rhythm and blues by the Ramsey Lewis Trio, popular rock numbers by the Four Seasons and the Four Tops. These were the sights and sounds witnessed by audiences who came to Emens and enjoyed some of the top names in the entertainment world. Scheduled as part of the Pop Concert series, entertainers gave well-received performances.

Comedian Bill Cosby had little trouble drawing laughter from his audiences as he comically described his impressions of Muncie and Ball State.

Piano team of Ferrante and Teicher performed some of their most popular arrangements.

One of the nation's top rock groups, The Four Seasons, were brought to Ball State by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Noted persons featured in convocation series

A former astronaut reveals space stories . . . a Russian countess tells of life in the Soviet Union . . . a Chinese ambassador discusses China-United States relations. As part of the convocation series, noted persons appeared at Emens Auditorium throughout the year and enlightened students and Muncie citizens on a wide range of topics. The host of guests included Countess Alexandra Tolstoy; Erskine Caldwell, author; astronaut Scott Carpenter; and Chow Shu-Kai, ambassador of the Republic of China.

Former astronaut Scott Carpenter discussed space experiences and also his latest projects involving deep sea studies.

The National Players appeared at Emens to present a Greek tragedy and Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Esther Peterson talked of her job as U. S. Secretary of Labor.

Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the Russian author, Leo Tolstoy, told of life in Russia and a few anecdotes of her father's life.

Posing in one of their scenes are three members of the Paul Taylor Dance Co.

Chow Shu-Kai, Chinese ambassador, discussed China.

The distinguished Erskine Caldwell lectured on his writing experiences.

"Crisis in American Education" was the topic chosen by noted author, educator and lecturer C. Northcote Parkinson in his appearance at Ball State.

Students show talent in theater productions

A play was chosen . . . its cast was selected . . . rehearsals began . . . sets constructed . . . rehearsals continued . . . sound effects and lighting were prepared . . . rehearsals continued . . . suddenly it was opening night for another Little Theater production. Though on a much smaller scale than Emens Auditorium stage shows, the almost entirely student-produced performances did not lack quality. End products of student talent and dedication to long hours of work, theater plays provided audiences with seemingly professional entertainment.

Joe Brunner and Jan Adams played two of the leading roles in "Born Yesterday," The story of an ex-chorus girl's escapades.

Pseudo-Japanese characters entangled in absurd situations, provided constant sources of amusement in the production "The Mikado."

Studio theater offers unique performances

Dramatic improvisation . . . absurd theater . . . reader's theater . . . theater-in-the-round. By employing techniques such as these, student actors and directors were able to create special effects that made Studio Theater productions uniquely different from regular theatrical productions. This variety of effects combined with the small size of the theater itself was conducive to the establishment of a close relationship between the audience and the performers and made such plays as "Viet Rock" memorable performances.

Long hours of rehearsal went into the production of "J. B.", a poetic drama that was a takeoff on biblical characters.

An all-male cast was featured in "Waiting for Godot," a production having a tragic theme and comic dialogue.

"And Things That Go Bump In the Night," was one of the first Studio Theater productions.

Unusual situations in the chamber opera, "The Turn of the Screw" contributed to the eerie mood of the production.

Violent action interchanged with moments of thoughtful silence were combined to study the controversial Viet Nam war in "Viet Rock."

Another production demanding talented and skillful performances by its cast members was the haunting "House of Bernarda Alba."

As members of an audience watch a production, they are seldom aware of the preparation that goes into making a cast member realistically look his part.

Finished building houses education departments

Finally housed together under one roof, all departments of the Teachers College settled down in their new eleven story home. Through this close contact, the various departments were able to better coordinate all aspects of the education profession as presented at Ball State. These departments included general psychology; experimental psychology; elementary education; secondary, adult and higher education; educational psychology; counseling; and educational administration and supervision. The only separate facility was the Burris Laboratory School where education students got practical experience and the opportunity to apply their knowledge.

College of Architecture anticipates new building

A field trip to St. Louis to study programs in traffic and urban planning as well as the work of the planning architect, began spring quarter for many of the 200 students enrolled in the College of Architecture and Planning. Also, for the third year, a trip to Columbus, Ohio, the Athens of the Midwest, was organized to acquaint interesting freshmen with the architectural program. In between their field trips and project studies, students continued to anticipate the completion of the new College of Architecture building which is to be located just south of the present sight.

Social science departments respond to growing needs

Social organizations, social movements, sociology of adolescence, delinquency. Such topics became the basis for new courses and seminars offered by the Department of Sociology and Anthropology last year. A summer workshop for high school teachers was inaugurated and research in adolescent attitudes was begun. The political science department added a United Nations course from which delegates to the mock United Nations Assembly were selected and also brought noted lecturers to campus including Dr. Chow-Shu-Kai, ambassador of the Republic of China. In the history department, courses in Negro and Latin American history were added while in the archeology program, digging expeditions were planned.

"Search, scrounge and scare up those fossils" say archaeology students during one of their excavation field trips.

of nearby area helps

Applied learning: goal of science departments

The science departments were constantly working toward more applied learning. The geography-geology department offered a month in British Honduras for field study last year and extensive use of undergraduate lab instructors. New equipment was purchased in the chemistry and physics departments to aid in graduate and undergraduate research. A planetarium completed last year gave students and visitors to the campus an opportunity to study the stars. The health and physiology department experimented with the use of a TV course broadcasted live while the biology department arranged frequent field trips for the benefit of biology students.

A field trip to the water works helped geology students understand the reason that water must be carefully purified before drinking.

Learning to lift patients properly is only one of the many skills learned by nursing students during their training in actual hospital situations.

"Je ne comprends pas," remarks Elin Epperson during one of many drills in a French conversation class.

Audio-visual aids such as movies and language labs reinforce students' learning from textbooks and lectures.

Language departments acquire new heads; curriculum changes

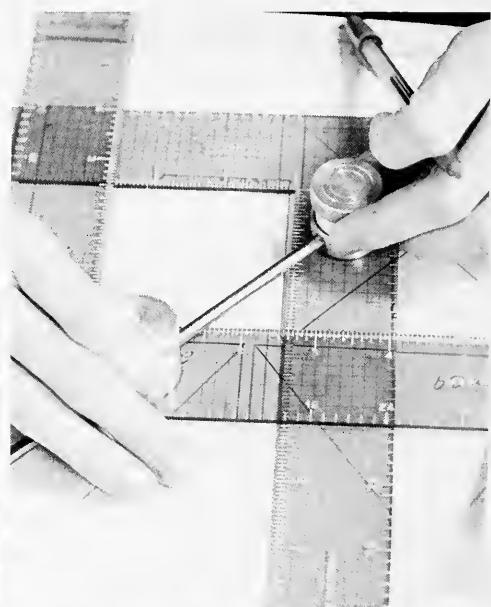

Setting its eyes on the future, the English department started a Master of Arts degree in linguistics and added a Negro literature course to the curriculum. Dr. Thomas Wetmore, after serving twenty-five years at Ball State, resigned as head of the department to be replaced by Dr. Richard Renner from the University of Missouri. The foreign language department also came under a new head, Dr. Robert Sears. The department saw the addition of a new language lab and a possible change in curriculum as new courses such as Italian were looked into for the future.

Besides mastering English, international students spent hours in the lab learning other languages.

By listening to tapes of the proper pronunciation of language and then his pronunciation of it, a student was aided in his efforts to master that language.

Constructive criticism of their work by students themselves and the instructor, Miss Junas, was valuable in photojournalism classes.

Communications area sees reorganization

Journalism . . . radio, television . . . speech . . . drama. Each of these areas made a contribution to the special field known as mass communications. Once a part of the mass communications department, the journalism center gained separate identity this year and also expanded its graduate program. The radio-TV center began plans during the year for a departmental field trip next spring to Los Angeles, so that students could gain a greater awareness of the broadcast media's extent. Additional courses and special programs also contributed to the expansion of the centers for speech and drama.

Business departments see changes, additions

A questionnaire survey of accounting alumni, a new internship program and a newly developed course in accounting problems kept students in that department busy during the year. Involved in a number of conferences this year, the Department of Business Education and General Business Administration held its annual meeting in November and later hosted the regional meeting of the Indiana Association of Education Secretaries to which approximately 300 secretaries came. Marketing was made fun for students in that area by the development of a type of game involving simulation and computers that enabled students to learn through experience

Modern equipment in the business department enables students to work independently, taking down and preparing dictated information.

Home ec., industrial arts departments add new equipment, facilities

Contributing to the expansion of the industrial arts department during the past year was the purchase of new machinery including two linotype machines and a plastic-forming equipment machine. While drafting, welding and printing kept male students busy, coeds in the home economics department were taking advantage of the facilities offered by the two new home management trailers located in the University Tailor Court. By rotating such duties as planning meals, doing laundry, cleaning house, and hosting dinner parties, girls living in the trailers were given experience in real home living.

It's definitely a man's world in industrial arts.

Weight lifting is one way of keeping physically fit but there are countless others as any physical education major knows.

Departments offer additional programs

Expansion was considerable last year in the areas of library science, aerospace studies and physical education. To better prepare students for public and school librarian work, the library science department initiated a graduate program, hired additional faculty and increased its facilities. A traditional source of armed forces officers, the ROTC program worked toward perfecting its two-year training program. Full-time use of a new Olympic size pool, interdepartmental competition in team sports and research into new programs were developments within the physical education departments.

Coeds rehearsed a modern dance routine in preparation for a program they had to present. Hours of practice outside of class were not at all unusual.

Visiting lecturers in the field of library science gave students a view of the profession's extent.

Music, art departments provide change of pace

Characterizing major accomplishments in the music department during the year were performances by the Concert Choir at Town Hall in New York City, appearances in Carnegie Hall by the faculty Musical Arts Quintet and half-time presentations by the show band at the Chicago Bears game and later the Colts-Browns game. Meanwhile, at home in Muncie, the music department purchased a $20,000 Baroque style pipe organ. Under a new department chairman, several programs were initiated in the art department. Further emphasis was placed on art education, ceramics, drawing and design while other areas including photography and cinematography were also strengthened.

By attending many social functions, President and Mrs. Pruis became well acquainted with Ball State.

Pruis completes first year as BSU president

Hosting receptions, attending banquets and balls, officially lighting the campus Christmas tree and crowning the Homecoming queen were only a few of the ceremonial tasks performed by Ball State's new president, John Pruis. Doing so with relative ease, Pruis fit well into the campus scene. Along with these duties, however, were the more burdensome official responsibilities — those related to the management of a growing university being faced with innumerable problems. To aid the president in solving these problems and carrying out executive duties, an administrative assistant is necessary. Serving in this capacity was Dr. Richard Caldemeyer, who also served under former President Emens.

Getting together with friends to play cards is a favorite pastime for Dr. Richard Caldemeyer, administrative assistant.

An enthusiastic son and a frisky puppy greet President Pruis when he arrives home after a long day.

When a Saturday or Sunday morning dawns bright and clear, Dr. Merrill C. Beyerl, vice president for student affairs, heads for the nearest golf course.

Student Affairs

Because a college student's development socially, emotionally, physically and intellectually are all equally important in his growth to maturity, the office of student affairs exists to aid the student in all aspects of campus life. This is accomplished through the provision of such services as housing, financial aid, health services, psychological counseling, graduate placement, international programs and student programs which coordinate all activities.

With his favorite cat at his knee, Mr. James Orr, director of international student programs, ponders over his next move to check his partner.

All set to tee off from the Westbrook Country Club house, Dr. Charles McNaughton, director of placement, indulges in his favorite pastime.

Dr. Edwin Biggerstaff, acting director of counseling and psychological services, shares his spare hours with his sons and a pet poodle.

A strike for sure, thinks Dr. James Marine, director of student programs, as he participates in his favorite hobby, bowling.

Odd jobs around the house, like painting, fill up the time for Dr. George Jones, director of religious programs.

Mowing, trimming, raking and other yard work keeps Dr. Wayne Pippenger, director of health services, occupied when he is at home.

Two playful and lively little children keep a father busy, realizes Dr. Welker Bishop, director of housing.

Mr. Garland A. Hardy, director of space studies and utilization, enjoys spending free hours in his workshop designing wood projects.

Hopping on a bicycle and riding around for a few miles is one way of keeping in shape, says Dr. Joseph C. Wagner, vice president for business affairs.

Business Affairs

Money — an eternal problem facing a growing university like Ball State, as concerned individuals ask who sets up the budget, why can't more equipment be purchased, or why can't the faculty be enlarged. The answers to such questions can usually be found in the Office of Business Affairs which handles all financial situations. This seemingly endless undertaking involves the reviewing of budgets and the distribution of funds to departments as well as management of funds for student loans and employment.

There's nothing quite as relaxing as settling down with a good book in a comfortable chair, according to Miss Ethel Himelick, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Truman Pope, coordinator and analyst of financial studies, finds that the world of guns provides a fascinating hobby.

Searching for and collecting coins is the favorite pastime of Mr. Perk Robins, director of development.

It's time to polish and shine those golf clubs which Mr. Ronald Bouchard, director of personnel services, uses quite often.

Mr. Earl Williams, general manager of Emens Auditorium, takes time to enjoy a few of the plays he helped schedule.

Some people need to get out of the house to find a really enjoyable hobby but Mr. H. Ansel Wallace, manager of purchasing, likes to settle down with a good magazine.

Mr. Philip Conklin, administrative assistant in business, tends to some yard work.

Dr. Orwin T. Richardson, dean of instructional services, uses his free hours to catch up on his favorite hobby, reading.

Dr. Robert H. Koenker, dean of graduates school and a man with a green thumb, devotes a good deal of time to his shrubbery and flower-filled gardens.

Dr. Thomas A. Ray, assistant to the vice-president of instructional affairs, is a model steamboat builder and collector in his off hours.

Instructional Affairs

Among the tasks carried out by the Instructional Affairs Office is assisting in the formulation of educational policy which is developed by appropriate faculty committees at Ball State. In addition to helping develop new courses, this area of administration has the responsibility of working with deans and faculty committees on the employment of new faculty as well as the retention and promotion of those already employed by the university.

Dr. Victor B. Lawhead, dean of undergraduate programs, frequently gets away from it all by hoisting the sails and skimming the waves.

Another sailing enthusiast in fair or stormy weather is Dr. Richard W. Burkhardt, vice president in charge of instructional affairs.

Mr. Don Lemish, director of public affairs for the alumni office, stays in shape by refereeing football.

In order to keep the blossoms coming and the plants in perfect shape, Dr. Robert Linson, director of alumni relations, keeps them closely pruned.

Thinking over the many new buildings planned and considering where more could be situated keeps Mr. Maurice Mann, assistant in campus development, busy.

Marie Fraser, director of public informational services, considers her collection of artistically mounted prints placed around her home.

Public Affairs

Financial development and campus development concerned the Office of Public Affairs. In furthering financial development of the university, Vice-President of Public Affairs Oliver Bumb and his staff attempted to raise funds for any programs which were not tax supported. In efforts to promote campus development, the staff concentrated on establishing productive relationships with alumni, citizens of Muncie, the state legislature and the general public. Assisting in these efforts were the offices of Alumni Relations, Public Information, Conferences and Special Events, and Plant Security.

Planting, plowing, and tending his own garden keep Dr. Oliver C. Bumb, vice president of public affairs, busy and physically fit.

Mr. Thomas Osborn, director of traffic, safety and security, takes to the rivers and streams and enjoys the age-old sport of fishing.

Mr. Kenneth D. LaRue, director of conferences and special events, enjoys relaxing at home with his family.

Fundamentals taught in Business College

Typing . . . transcription . . . bookkeeping . . . management . . . retailing . . . real estate . . . insurance . . . marketing. These and many other facets of the business world are made familiar to the student through the College of Business. Objectives of the college are to prepare men and women for careers in business, industry and business education. Curricula provided by the college's four departments—accounting, business education and office administration, general business administration and marketing, are designed to teach the fundamentals of business procedures and also to provide specialized training for a student's selected field of interest.

Licensing, departments, new home expand college

New curriculum, new departments, new home, and accreditation — the accomplishments of the College of Fine and Applied Arts. Apart from the library services set up some years ago, this year a library science curriculum was formed on the master's degree level. In the music division, music education, history and literature, and performance departments were created to give music majors more areas of concentration. In addition to Brandt House for home management this year a mobile home in the BSU trailer court housed home ec majors for nine-week periods. Topping off the list of achievements, accreditation was given by the National League of Nursing to the nurse's training curriculum which will graduate its second class in June.

College provides variety of programs

Opportunities for either a liberal arts, specialized or pre-professional program were available to students through curriculum offered by departments in the College of Science and Humanities. A liberal arts program encouraged free selection of subjects with emphasis on "idea" courses. Pre-professional programs were available in the areas of medicine, law, dentistry and engineering while specialists programs involved study in the areas of medical technology, regional and urban planning, social work and natural resources. Though the college saw few changes last year, there were added courses and expanded programs.

Reading and relaxing are favorite past-times of Dr. Robert Sears who is the head of the foreign language department.

Dr. Robert Carmin, dean of the College of Science and Humanities, finds fishing a necessary relaxer.

Dr. Louis Ingelhart, head of the journalism center, proves to his son that even a busy father can take time to fix a broken toy.

Dr. William Tomlinson, head of the radio and TV center, studies a few of his many slides.

A day on the golf course is the best thing for exercise says Dr. Alan Huckleberry, head of the speech department.

Dr. Warren Schaller, head of physiology and health science, displays the latest additions to his family's menagerie.

Horseback riding is a favorite pastime of Dr. Wendell Gruenewald, chairman of political science and philosophy.

Teachers College moves to eleven story edifice

The doors of the Teachers College formally opened second summer session of 1968 with several new innovations established in certain departments. A program to prepare teachers to instruct culturally disadvantaged children, new programs in higher education and development and implementation of program grants in counseling were instituted. A combination of simulated experience and changes in the student participation program were initiated spring quarter to elevate the crowded situation at Burris School. The education administration and supervision department underwent few changes in its program.

How about a little music before bedtime, Dr. Donald Jones, head of the department of secondary education, asks his young son.

Dr. Merle Strom, head of the department of educational administration and supervision, collects rare oddities.

Dr. David Richmond, chairman of the department of educational psychology, shows his sons that books do not always have to be dull and difficult.

Dr. Elizabeth Spencer, head of special education, enjoys working in the kitchen, especially baking cookies.

Seniors

■ Commencement marks an end, a beginning

As he sat through the ceremonies marking commencement, a bridge between the past and future, each individual student let his mind wander — wander to all the events of the past four years, possibly the best and most significant years of his life. Significant because they would have a marked effect on his future. And it is the future too, on which his thoughts dwelled, what he would do and how he would fit into life's complicated pattern as a result of having reached that one big goal, a college degree.

University president, John Pruis, prepared to give his first commencement speech at Ball State.

Commencement speaker was Agnes deMille, who spoke about the student's role in the current world.

Committee selects outstanding seniors

To recognize outstanding scholastic achievement, leadership ability and service to the campus, a student-faculty committee, each year, selects certain seniors to be named outstanding. On May 14 students received the honor at the annual Junior-Senior Honor Banquet. The highest tribute that can be paid to a senior is the Emens Award, which was presented to Tom Kraack.

Gridders play first independent season; Alley, Rice, VanPelt lead squad to 5-4 record

Ball State trainers aid an injured Cardinal gridder.

The 1968 version of the Ball State Cardinal football team opened a new era in the university's grid-iron history. Dropping out of the Indiana Collegiate Conference to seek stronger competition, the team was finding out what it was like to move up in class. The redclads posted a 5-4 mark after facing a stream of tough opponents including Bowling Green, Eastern Michigan and Northern Illinois. However, Coach Wave Myers' gridders proved they had outgrown the ICC by defeating all its members. Graduation losses and team injuries added to hardships and frustrations of the team's transition. But as the season progressed, Myers' aerial circus, under the generalship of quarterback Willard Rice, shattered the Cardinal record books. Senior end Ed Alley received the Most Valuable Player Award and Rice set all new single season passing records. Running back Amos Van Pelt set a new career rushing record of 2209 yards and was named as a first team College Division All-American.

Cardinal soccer team registers 1-8-1 season

Ball State's 1968 varsity soccer team, victimized by four 3-2 losses during the year, could manage only a 1-8-1 season record, despite outstanding play by seniors Al Bianco and Iesa Al-Iesa. Bianco had six goals and six assists while Al-Iesa tallied seven goals to lead the Cardinal scoring attack. The squad named Al-Iesa the most valuable player of 1968. Jeff Kuroski and C. J. Krumenacker were chosen as the team's co-captains while Mike Planert was recognized as the most improved team member. Coach Neil Schomottlach was assisted by Dr. Arno Wittig and Dennis Baron.

Facing its toughest schedule ever, the Ball State cross-country team ended the 1968 season with a 6-6 duel meet record. Top man for the Cardinal harriers was 1967 All-American senior Dave Kerr who captured six first place spots in twelve meets. Kerr was named Most Valuable Runner and served as the team's co-captain along with senior Gary Hall.

Hall, who posted the second best individual statistics, clinched top honors for Ball State in the Indiana Big State meet by winning a fourth place medal. Other returning lettermen were juniors Max Blank and Steve Kearney. Under the direction of Head Coach Dick Clevenger, the season marked the beginning of the team's participation in the NCAA University Division.

Lack of size hinders Cardinal roundballers

Absence of a strong big man, and overall lack of height hindered the Ball State varsity basketball team in the first season under new Head Coach Bud Getchell. The team, relying on sticky defense, posted a record of 7 wins and 16 losses for the 68-

69 season. Cardinal roundballers posted an early victory over nationally rated San Diego State. Forward Marzine Moore lead the team in scoring with a 17.9 point per game average. Mike Holland, Card center, and Gary Miller, forward guard, averaged 14.2 and 13.2 respectively. Holland also lead the team in rebounding. Holland and Miller were named as the co-MVPs and Barry Kennedy team captain.

Cardinal gymnasts improve record; post 7-10

Utilizing the talents of a large varsity squad, Coach Bob Weiss and the gymnastics team improved on the 67-68 record by posting a 7-10 season mark. The record included a .1 of a point loss to Northern Illinois by the score of 122.75 to 122.65. The Cardinal squad also dropped two decisions to Western Illinois and George Williams by close margins. Jim Gaszynski recorded the highest average score of the season with a mean of 8.23 out of a possible 10 points on the rings. Mark Young, Ellis Dames, and Eric Connell were also strong performers.

Ball State's 1969 swimming team, competing in the new university pool for the first year, posted a 5-9 record for the season. Cardinal tankers were victorious in the season-opening Notre Dame Invitational Swimming Meet. Gerald Gerardo was consistently a top performer in the three-meter diving competition during his freshman year at Ball State. Dennis Stites set a school and pool record of 21.7 for the 50 yard freestyle. Jim Lehner in the 1000 yard freestyle, Dave Powell in the 100 and 200 yard freestyle, and Bill Frick in the 200 yard backstroke also set records for Coach Chuck Guemple's team.

Seniors, freshmen lead track squad

Veteran seniors and rookie freshmen proved to be the key for Coach Dick Clevenger's track squad. The season, which saw only mediocre success, did give hope for a strong showing next year.

Mike Saylor, Mike Ehrman, Steve Heaston, Dave Juday and Bob Orebough were all top performers who will return for three more years of competition.

Dave Kerr, George Santa and George Cox also turned in top showings in their final year as Cardinal runners. Kerr, who placed eighth in the mile run at the NCAA finals set a school record of 4:04.8 in that event and was named as the team's MVP. Don Payne, in the triple jump, and the mile relay team also set school records.

Unpredictable Cards Play In NCAA Baseball Play-Offs

An unpredictable season by the Cardinal baseballers saw the mound squad drop games to lesser rate foes, but still rebound with season-ending victories over the nationally ranked Southern Illinois squad. The in 13-10 record resulted in an invitation to the District 4 NCAA Baseball Play-offs in which the Cards were eliminated by the same Southern Illinois team. Pack Craig was the team's MVP, and Ron O'Neil the Honorary Captain. John McCoy lead the team in hitting and Tom Pinkerton and Mike Hoffar were the top hurlers.

Strong singles play by team members was the key as the varsity tennis squad posted a sparkling 14-5 record. Five players on the team won 10 or more singles matches in competition during the season. Rick Fair is the only squad member who will be lost by graduation and prospects look good for the team to again receive a bid to the NCAA finals next year. Dick Maisenbacher, Sam Peden, Max Weaver, Brian Nowfel and Steve Huntley, along with Fair, were consistently good performers.

Acknowledgements

The 1969 ORIENT was composed and printed by the Delmar Printing Company, Charlotte, North Carolina. Copy blocks are 11 point Universe Medium, captions 8 point Universe Italic, group identifications 8 point Universe Medium, and heads 24 point Lydian.

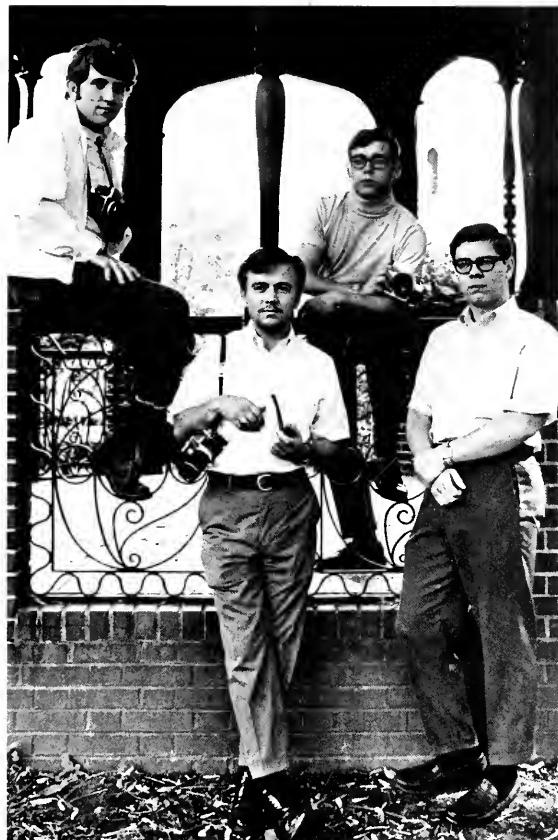

Our sincere appreciation is extended to Ed Hackleman, and Ralph Van Dyke, Delmar representative and artist respectively. The covers of the ORIENT were produced by the S.K. Smith Company in Chicago; Jack Bundy is their representative. Delma Studios, Inc. of New York City, represented by Jerry Schneider, took the senior portraits. Thornburg Studio in Muncie photographed group pictures and some activities. Merle Thiele, Kokomo, also took group pictures.

Special thanks also goes to Miss Lil Junas, editorial advisor, and Dr. Louis Ingelhart, financial advisor.
